ATTEMPTED EXPRESS ROBBERY.

Wrong Man Was Assailed, Which Frustrated Robbers' Plans.
Chicago, Sept. 22.—A bold attempt by two men to lock themselves in a Michigan Central railroad express car with the express messenger, overpower him after the train had left the yards at Thirteenth street and then ride the two safes in the car was frustrated when the plans of the would be robbers miscarried.

William Ganghin, an expressman was knocked unconscious and gagged in the express car, and then the men discovered he was not the express messenger and, fearing detection, fled. This is the theory of railroad officials. The express messenger who has charge of the car later left Chicago with one guard and about $25,000 in two safes in the car. This money, it is believed, was the object of the attack of the two men. Ganghin was taken to St. Luke's hospital, and it was found his shoulder had been dislocated and he had sustained severe bruises. If he had not been discovered in the car in time, the physicians say, he would have smothered to death because of the gag in his mouth.

It was at first thought that Ganghin was attacked instead of Harry Orr, another employee in the yards, who had trouble with a discharged employee recently. The police were summoned and Ganghin was taken to the hospital, but it was not until the expressman revived and told of the mysterious attack that the attempted robbery theory presented itself. When the officials of the railroad and express companies learned of the affair they began an investigation. Ganghin says nothing was taken from him by the robbers, which leads him to believe he received the beating intended for Express Messenger Hall.

A detachment of the Twenty-eighth infantry embarked in boats and had a sharp engagement on Toros lake, Lano, on the 10th inst., with a band of fanatical Moros, during which Private O. L. #### Club to Make Firing Costly.

A hundred young men of the most exclusive society in St. Petersburg have just established a club to be known as the League of the Enemies of Fillets, says the New York World. Hereafter when youthful impulse betrays a longer into the indiscretion of a wink or a kiss not sanctioned by the laws of strict propriety he will pay a fine of $600. A second offense will cost $1,600, and the third violation of his oath of initiation (to abjure all flirting forever) will mean expulsion. The extenuating circumstance of a fall from grace is the fact that the sinners' repentance fund goes to the poor.
